Big Business Shows Prosperity

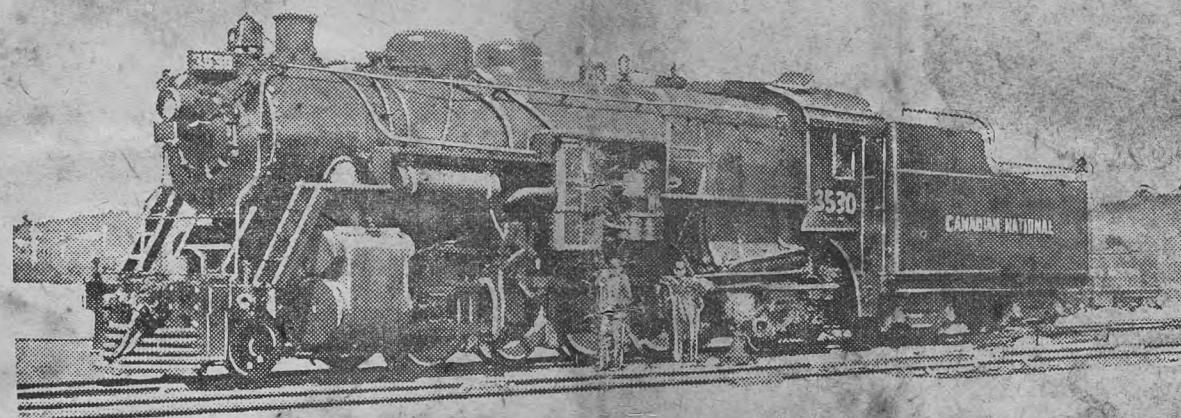

Canada's trade figures for the twelve months ending June leave no doubt as to the prosperity of the country. Exports for the twelve months increased from $754,642,691 last year to $994,543,449 this year—a jump of $228,900,558. Imports also increased $132,225,379.

Prepare For Grain Rush

Plans for securing the utmost efficiency in the despatch of grain shipments over the Canadian National Railways were discussed at an important conference of National Railway officials of the Manitoba division held at Port Arthur and Fort William. The new Neebing Terminal was inspected during the visit to the head of the lakes.

HUGE LOCOMOTIVES OF THE MIKADO TYPE ARRIVE FOR FALL GRAIN RUSH ON C.N.R.

New locomotives of the Mikado type for the movement of the 1923 grain crop over the Canadian National Railways have begun to reach the West. The new locomotives, which were built at Montreal, are of the latest type with all new improvements. They are 73 feet in length and weigh approximately 450,000 pounds with a drawbar pull equal to 5,500 tons. The engines, which are for freight use, are equipped with automatic stokers, Westinghouse air brakes and air reverse and have the new type of Worthington feeder, water heater and pump. One of the changes in the new engine is the cab design, all mountings being installed in a box outside of the cab instead of inside the cab as in former types.

Twenty-three of the new engines are coming West for the Manitoba division in time for the beginning of the grain movement and 22 are coming for the Saskatchewan division. An idea of the size of the new engines may be gathered from the fact that before starting out on a run they require 12 tons of coal and 8,300 gallons of water to complete their tender supplies. The new engines are all equipped with the Booster truck and ten of those to be delivered later will have Booster engines installed. These provide practically additional motive power on the tender and are of great value in starting heavy trains. The engines are being placed in service as quickly as they reach the Western divisions.

75 Per Cent. Sign Wheat Pool Contracts In Chauvin District

The majority of the Chauvin district wheat growers have signed the Alberta Wheat Pool contracts. The complete returns of the canvassers have not, at the time of publishing, been compiled, but the most conservative estimate is that seventy-five per cent have signed up. We expect however, that the figure will be at least eighty-five per cent in the final returns.

Edinglassie, Roros and Prosperity districts have signed up about ninety per cent strong. Greenmeadows will have a high percentage of signatures, as will the St. Jean Baptiste district. Other districts are to be heard from.

New Financial Record

A new financial record was established by Canadian houses in absorbing immediately a bond issue of $22,500,000 for additional equipment on the Canadian National Railways. The bonds carry 5 per cent. interest and run for fifteen years. None of the money was raised from outside sources.

Correspondents Are Busy Folks These Days

Owing to the rush of harvest operations our country correspondents are unable to send their usual contributions of news items. This service which they have so freely given us without remuneration is greatly appreciated by us, and we will be glad to receive any news items that they are able to send us. We also ask all our readers in the meantime to send in co-operate with us in making our paper of real local interest by sending any information which will be of interest to our readers.

Weather Delays Harvest: Black Rust Appears

The continuance of heavy showers and rain at frequent intervals during the past two weeks have considerably delayed the ripening of the grain crops and harvesting. Black rust has been observed in some fields, but is not generally prevalent. Some cutting has been done but the main cutting has hardly been started. Steady fine weather is now urgently needed.

Inspector Thompson, at the government grading office at Edmonton, has been notified that the special rust grades will again be adopted where necessary this year. This grading will be necessary in Manitoba where rust is reported, but it is not expected that it will be resorted to in Edmonton district. The rust grades are special No. 4, No. 5, No. 6.

In the case of No. 4 grade the weight required after cleaning is fifty-five pounds, instead of fifty-four under ordinary circumstances.

The permit system of shipments of grain to Vancouver will be placed in effect after September 1st. The facilities for handling are greater than last year, but it will be necessary to avoid congestion.

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Directors Elected For Two Year Term

The permanent board of directors of the Saskatchewan wheat pool will be elected to service for a period of two years, half the number automatically retiring each year. One director will be elected for each sixteen districts into which the province will be divided and any contract holder resident within the district will be eligible for the office.

About the only men who are able to support the tastes of a gentleman are those who never had time to acquire the tastes.

Drys Opposing Any Referendum In Saskatchewan

With indications of a general referendum approaching in Saskatchewan, the prohibition committee of the Social Service council today issued a strongly-worded manifesto, declaring that, as compared to the period when government liquor stores were operated in this province, general crime had been reduced to approximately one-half, drunkenness to one-fifth, and vagrancy to one-ninth.

The committee objects to a referendum at this time, declaring that the present law should be allowed to operate for a minimum period of three years from the date the liquor export warehouses were closed, December 15 last.

Hide Market Weak

Nothing any better in the hide market and the possibility of shipments to American markets are poor, as they are buying their packer hides in Chicago at low prices and the country banded hides there are not called for.

The quality of the hides which are coming off now is very good and this is the time that the dealers thought they would be able to pay a better price, but in the face of the present lack of demand from the tanners there is not any encouragement.

Wool Market Firm

Some reports from across the line indicate that the wool market is fairly firm, but there is a lack of buying at present prices which indicate that manufacturers are waiting for lower prices.

Building Permits Increase

The total value of building permits issued in Canada during June was $50,674,800 as compared with $40,697,200 in May.

Alberta Wheat Pool Secretary Is Man Of Experience And Ability

Mr. W. J. Jackman, the Secretary of the Alberta Wheat Pool, is a broad speaking Yorkshire man with a masterly grip of details. Prior to coming to Canada he was for several years a private secretary to a member of the British Cabinet. Added to all the training which must precede the holding of such an important post, Mr. Jackman has had many years of experience in secretarial work in Alberta. For the past ten years he has been secretary of the Municipal District of Clover Bar, one of the most important rural districts in Alberta. He has been secretary to the Alberta Municipal Association ever since its organization. Three years ago he was commissioner under the Supplementary Revenue Taxation and in this office visited the Chauvin district in 1920.

He has always been prominent in matters of public interest, and has often been associated with Mr. Greenfield in public work. Mr. Jackman is still in the prime of middle age, and his scheme as secretary is one of the best assurances we can have of its success.

Slow Marketing Wheat Depends Upon Farmers

The Toronto Globe's agricultural editor, after a personal canvass of the grain authorities of the west, sends the following from Winnipeg:

There is still plenty of time for fickle Dame Fortune to disarrange sadly any predictions, and at the present moment, and from the Winnipeg standpoint the western wheat crops looks good for 350,000,000 to 400,000,000 bushels.

Manitoba's prospects are easily 50 per cent below those of six years ago. Hon. T. A. Crerar, of the United Grain Growers told the Globe. Some of the wheat coming into this office from the south of the province runs only forty-six pounds to the measured bushel. Heat and rust have hit the farmers hard in that section. The crop in Saskatchewan, the largest wheat producing province, Mr. Crerar states, was also seriously hit by rust and sawfly, but to a much smaller extent than Manitoba. Western Saskatchewan and the whole of Alberta expect good crops.

The head of the Grain Growers' company cautions against too much optimism, however, stating emphatically that wheat through the greater portion of the west is still in the stage where a severe frost would be most serious.

Whether farmers are forced to throw their wheat on the market or whether they will be allowed to market the wheat in a leisurely fashion will depend largely upon the mortgage implement and wholesale men, claimed Mr. Crerar, who added that the bulk of the western farmers are still in debt and are hard up for ready cash.

Specially good value is being offered this year in scribblers, ruled and plain 60 pages 8 1-4 by 10 3-4 six for 25c. This is the best value we have been able to give the public since pre-war prices got shot to pieces.

OUR SHORT STORY

A Bit Of Seaweed

Kate Langdon was a character. Not especially pretty, she had a way with her that first attracted people's attention, then won them. Some said she was very deep, others that she was a simple child of nature. She was certainly reckless. She would flirt with several men at a time without heeding the consequences and when cornered would, if possible, dodge them all by flight, leaving them to settle the matter among themselves.

And so it was that some blamed her, while others defended her, but all were amused by her. It was very interesting to see a middy come upon the edge of the vortex, get drawn in, drop out, giving place perhaps to a fellow middy, perhaps to an officer. Whether the girl realized the wrong she was often doing, whether she was unconscious of it or whether she had no appreciation of the tenderness of men's hearts, certain it is that she never seemed either ashamed of her conquests or proud of them. Indeed, she gave every evidence that she regretted them.

A fine field for such girls is either the West Point or Annapolis academy, where young men are trained for the army or navy. Kate Langdon the year of the breaking out of the Spanish-American war visited the Naval academy as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Lyall, the wife of one of the professors. She hadn't been there a week before she had half a dozen middies "by the ears."

In the class to be graduated the following spring were two young men, Hector Peckham and Leslie Holt. Both met Kate Langdon, and both fell violently in love with her. In the government academies the standard of honor is very high. Neither of the cadets would take the slightest advantage of the other, but neither could find out which was really the favored one. Nor where they ever sure but that one of several other middies might not after all carry off the prize.

Peckham finally won. Kate gave him her heart and, to the surprise of every one, gave him the whole of it. There were a number of disappointments in consequence of this victory, the most serious of which was Leslie Holt. Kate had given him a great deal of encouragement and for some time, after she came to a decision hadn't the heart to break with him. When it finally came out that Peckham had won, Holt went to see her to ask if the news were true. She confessed, and he told her that she had wrecked his life.

Young men have said this before to young women, to marry some other and live happily. Some have remained single, cherishing their idol when past middle age and find it demolished. Holt so long as he lived—he did not live long—never recovered from his infatuation. The words he used at his last meeting with Kate Langdon made the first change in her. But then her light, gladsome nature received its first sobering.

Meanwhile the Cuban war was coming on, and ships and munitions were being hurriedly put in condition for war. And the middies, too, were being hurried on in their academic course, to be graduated as soon as hostilities commenced.

The following spring Peckham and Holt were graduated and assigned to her. Having satisfied herself that it boded no harm to the man she loved, she turned to its bearer. He was not there.

Thinking that what had passed between them before her marriage had led him to go away without even having been thanked, she tossed the letter on a table and ran out into the hall to stop him. Not finding him in the hall, she went out on the porch. He was not there, nor was he anywhere to be seen, though there was nothing for some distance to obstruct her vision.

"Strange" she said to herself and returned to her room, a fear coming over her that the affair was in some way connected with a misfortune to her husband. Going to the table, she was about to snatch up the letter when she saw that it was not where she had put it. Looking on the floor for it she did not find it.

"I'm sure something has happened to Hector," she moaned. "Leslie Holt slipped away on purpose so that he wouldn't have to say anything to me about it. But how pale he looked and how exhausted.

Thinking a draft might have blown the letter off the table, she looked about until she saw something of a light brownish color in a corner. Sure that it was the letter, which had been discolored, she seized it. What was her surprise to find a seaweed.

There was something so uncanny in all this that she was now thoroughly frightened. Dropping the seaweed, she put both hands to her temples in an effort to regain her equanimity. Then, rushing out of the room, she ran to her aunt and sank in a swoon.

Ten minutes later Dr. Coggswell, medical officer at the academy, was called to Professor Lyall's quarters. He found Mrs. Peckham lying on a bed in a high state of nervous excitement. Mrs. Lyall told the doctor, before he saw the patient, the story her niece had told her, and he did not permit the invalid to go over it again. He said that the expectation for a long while that her husband would at any time participate in a naval engagement and the excitement attending the recent fight had been a strain upon her nerves that had produced hallucination. He prescribed a sedative and left directions that she was to be kept quiet.

But Mrs. Peckham did not recover from the strain as soon as was expected. And one morning something occurred to give her a terrible back set. A telegram from Key West appeared in a morning paper stating that a little naval tender, commanded by Leslie Holt, had been wrecked on one of the keys and all on board had been lost.

Mrs. Lyall kept this news from her niece as long as she dared hoping the invalid would gain strength and there would be less danger in communicating it to her. Finally, fearing that Kate might hear it from others, she told her of young Holt's death.

If anything was needed to complete the solution that the wraith of the man who had told her she had wrecked his life had visited her, the announcement of his death supplied it. A subsequent letter, however, from Peckham served to lighten the blow. Kate felt that the matter had no reference to her husband; it was between her and Leslie Holt. She considered it a punishment for having trifled with him and brooded and brooded, and all efforts on the part of her friends to convince her that there was nothing in it.

Prince of Wales a Canadian Rancher

This photograph of the Prince was taken on his first visit to the Dominion. To the left is seen a picture of his ranch, and above it is an interior view of one of the suites aboard the Empress of France, bottom right.

HIS Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will for a month or so become a simple Canadian rancher. That he will travel incognito on his coming to Canada does not mean that he will travel in disguise but that he will not take part in official functions or make official visits, and when approached with regard to his stay in the Canadian Dominion he has always stated that his time will be fully taken up by the affairs of the E. P. ranch.

The Prince of Wales exhibits a deep and marked interest in the ranch he purchased near Calgary on his memorable tour of the Dominion, and his desire to visit it is but a fresh indication of the importance he attaches to it and the work it is doing. Immediately after purchasing the ranch, and before returning to England, the Prince made arrangements for the shipment of some of the best stock in the British Isles to the Canadian West. Thoroughbred horses came from the Royal stud, shorthorns from the King's farm, shropshire sheep from the Duke of Westminster's estate, and hardy Dartmoor ponies from the Devon moors. The latest importation consisted of a thoroughbred stallion and four mares the finest obtainable in the British Isles. "Will Somers", which heads the stud at the E. P. ranch is a handsome five year old which at three years was the winner of several English classics.

Thus the Prince has demonstrated that his purchase of the ranch was not a matter of sentiment or commercial profit, but a genuine desire to foster the breeding of better livestock in the West. His efforts have been eminently successful. At all provincial exhibitions the animals from the High river ranch are attractive features, and last Fall, shorthorn cattle, constituting the first commercial sales the ranch has effected, commanded top prices.

Cattle from the E. P. exhibited at the stock show at the Calgary Stampede were heavy prize winners, and sheep and horses from the same ranch created an unparalleled standard.

The Royal rancher has planned to arrive at Quebec on September 12th on the Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of France". The palatial liner, 18,000 tons, which was the flag ship of the 10th Cruiser Squadron on Northern patrol duty during the War is the most up-to-date vessel of its type and is most suited to the accommodation of its distinguished passenger. Reconditioned after the war, this ship is one of the most magnificent yet comfortable vessels in trans-Atlantic service. It holds the record for oil. Its large and comfortable suites and cabins, spacious promenade decks, numerous and excellently appointed public rooms and service facilities make the Empress one of the most popular ships in the Canadian Pacific fleet.

a war vessel sailing for Cuba. Peckham and Kate were married before he sailed. The wedding was notable from the number of disappointed young men in attendance. But every man of them swore by the bride and considered the groom the luckiest man that had ever wooed a woman.

Kate, having joined the navy matrimonially, felt at home at a naval station, and her aunt, who adored her, invited her to remain with her indefinitely. So Kate stayed where she would be in touch with her husband far more than at home. That was an exciting summer. First came news of the fight in Manila bay, then the entrance of the Spanish Admiral Cervera's fleet into Cuban waters, its attempt to escape and its destruction.

Peckham and Holt went through this last fight, and when it was over the latter officer was ordered to the command of a small supply boat and directed to sail for the Brooklyn navy yard.

"Can I do anything for you at home?" he asked of Peckham.

"Nothing unless you will take a letter for my wife. You will mail it as soon as you get to Brooklyn."

"With pleasure," replied Holt.

Peckham wrote a short note to his wife and gave it to Holt.

"The trap I'm to command is not very seaworthy," said the latter. "If I meet a big blow I may not get through. But I promise you, Hector that your wife shall have the letter."

Peckham hoped that his friend would get through safely and then parted.

One morning young Mrs Peckham was sitting in her room at Annapolis reading accounts of the naval fight off Cuba—she had read them many times before—when a draft blew open the door and there came into the room a strong smell of the sea. Standing before the opening was Leslie Holt, pale and exhausted.

"Why, Mr. Holt" exclaimed Mrs Peckham.

Without a word he handed her a letter. Thinking it to be from her husband or that it might bring bad tidings from him in Cuba she momentarily turned to its bearer to the letter. It bore evidence of having been wet. A dampness clung to it, and the letters of the address had run together. She tore it open and read it. It was simply an announcement that the writer was well, had suffered nothing in the recent engagement and hoped before many weeks to return to

STICK IT OUT!

When your world's about to fall
And your back's against the wall,
When your facing wild retreat and utter rout
When it seems that nought can stop it,
All your pleas and plans can't stop it,
And your back's against the wall.
Get a grip upon yourself and—stick it out!

Any craven fool can quit,
But a man with pluck and grit
Will hold until the very final shout;
In the snarling teeth of sorrow
He will laugh and say: "To-morrow
The luck will change . . . I guess I'll stick it out.
The luck does change: you know it,
All the records prove and show it,
And the men who win are men who strangle doubt:
Don't hesitate or swerve,
Who have grit and pluck and nerve,
And whose motto is—Play hard, and stick it out.
So you, when things go wrong,
And you think you can't last long,
That you've got to quit nor wait the final bout:
Smile, smile at your beholders,
Clench your teeth and square your shoulders.
And fight! You'll win if you will but stick it out!

Best Resolutions

In this new year I resolve:
To do my best, and better myself.
To think the best of others.
To best no one.
To set an example of proving that honesty is the best policy.
To show the best side of my character outside the house, and the same inside.
To be the childrens best friend.
To grip that to do the right thing is to do the best thing.
To realize that the successful are those who pass from good to better, and thence to best.
And to grip that the best in the end is the best in the beginning, and that cheapness does not always mean economy.

PANGS OF JUSTICE

Some folks were born to rule they say
But others just to work;
All have their chosen tasks,
None were meant to shirk.
So when I hear of people
Who fool away lifes day,
While earnest ones who do think
Fail to have their say,
My soul is stirred to anger.
May that time soon come,
When copy cats with brain ease
Will rank next to the bum.
H. T. Jr., Pelican S.D.

Our friends and not our enemies are our truest and fairest judges, for they understand us best. Turn that thought around, and we shall find that we are not qualified to pass judgement on those we dislike.

MARKETING ALBERTA COAL: DON'T MAKE THE NATIONAL THE GOAT

There is a big opening for marketing Alberta coal in Ontario. Alberta has one of the richest coal fields of the world. Ontario has a constant demand for coal, which cannot be supplied from her own coalfields, as a result she has been, year by year, importing an increasingly large tonnage of coal from the United States collieries.

Canada has the coal. Canada needs the cash. Thence the national importance of development of the market for Alberta coal in Ontario.

If further argument is needed, we may point out that we have the railroad facilities. In fact we have more railroad than we have work for, and more traffic is required to make those railroads profitable. The hauling of Alberta coal to the Ontario markets would provide a large increase of traffic and revenue therefrom.

These arguments are so fully realized that demonstrations have been made of Alberta coal in Ontario. These demonstrations have proven that Alberta coal is satisfactory to Ontario consumers, provided it is forthcoming in sufficiently large quantities and with sufficient regularity at a price which will compete with the Pennsylvania coal now used. Alberta has the quality and quantity and can ship regularly all the year round. The price question now remains to be solved.

In the effort to solve the price question there is a large school of those, who, realizing that the National road can haul the coal and needs the business, say, let the railroad quote a sufficiently low rate and the question is solved. The National has responded by quoting a special rate of $9.00 per ton (the C.P.R. rate is $9.90). Further pressure has been brought on the National for another reduction, and a $6.00 rate for a limited quantity within certain time limits has been granted for demonstration purposes, but not as a permanent rate.

Let us analyze this $9.00 per ton rate. It requires the railroad should haul a car of coal an average distance of over 2100. The railroad cannot fill all the cars with freight for the return journey and must haul more than half the cars back empty. This means, roughly, that to haul a load 2000 miles the company must haul the car at least 3000 miles. This haulage must be paid out of the $9.00 per ton paid to the company; so that when this rate is divided by the number of car miles we find the company receives rather less than nine cents per car-mile for hauling this car. In other words the standard forty-four car freight train loaded with Alberta coal must move at the rate of $3.96 per train-mile. Surely not too large a figure to provide for everything from capitalization, construction, maintenance, operation to profit.

Suppose then, for the moment, we relax our efforts for further railroad rate reductions and look to other possibilities. We will then be able to find at least two reasonable fields for consideration. The first we will call "Giving Ontario a dose her own tonic." The second we will designate "Reasonable co-operation of the various classes."

Giving Ontario a Dose of Her Own Tonic

this system than any of the other provinces, and has become the home of many thriving industrial plants. Now that Alberta is needing to develop her coal mining, should she not have the same advantage of tariff protection so long enjoyed by her sister, Ontario. It is certainly logical that the west should participate in the advantages of the tariff system to at least a small proportion of those advantages already shared in the east. Therefore, why should we not put a duty upon coal imported from the States.

We recognize that western politicians would hardly care to advocate placing a duty upon coal, since that is opposed to the campaign for a lower tariff. Nor could they hope for success owing to their numerical inferiority. Ontario would naturally be slow to take off her hat and yell for such an impost. But the imposition of a duty upon coal is a perfectly logical sequence in the economic history of Canada.

Reasonable Co-operation of Various Classes

A second suggestion is that, instead of calling only upon the National railroad for reductions, we should call a round table conference of dealers, coal operators and miners. Let them show how, by reasonable economies, they can and will help to reduce the price of Alberta coal placed on the markets. Assuredly, according to the economic laws of production, we may assume that the operators being assured of a steady increase of demand should be able to operate their mines at a lower tonnage cost. The miners admit that assured more work the year around they could well afford a lower standard of wage—because it means a greater income per year.

To continue to make the National railroad the sole objective in getting reduction is simply to ask ourselves to make good all losses out of our pockets as tax payers—our burdens in this direction are large enough already. Common sense demands that if reductions are to be made, those reductions should be contributed too by all parties concerned.

Surely it is not too much to urge in these days when we have learned that prosperity is dependent upon the economic welfare of every section, that the consumers, dealers, dealers, transporters, operators and miners get together around the table of conference, and each in a manly open straight forward manner devise their share of the necessary plans to mine, market and purchase this valuable natural resource of Canada.

Cultivate InFoll To Kill Weeds

Spring is the time to start fighting weeds but after harvest there can be some good work done in the cultivated fields, says an article by Herbert Groh, of the Central Experimental farm, Ottawa. There can be a lot of good work done in Alberta this fall by those who have the available time as there has been a heavy growth of weeds as well as everything else. The government official says:

Some weeds, like the rag weed and Russian thistle push up rapidly about this time. Where grain has been seeded weed growth may have to be kept down by the use of the mower, but other stubble should be worked over by means of the disc harrow or cultivator or plowed very lightly. Besides preventing the seeding of weeds already on the surface, which can be destroyed in the later fall plowing. Some seeds—wild oats for example—do not germinate readily, if at all, the first season, but any farmer who has practised after-harvest cultivation knows that considerable germination of many weeds can be induced in favorable years.

Here and There

Nearly four thousand men were recruited by the Canadian Pacific Railway agents in England for work in the harvest fields of the Canadian West.

A sudden demand for wheat in Scandinavian markets has caused increased activity in the movement of grain through Vancouver. Four boats left with bulk wheat for ports of Norway and Sweden, marking the first direct grain shipments from the Canadian Pacific coast to Scandinavia.

The rapid increase in the export butter trade of Saskatchewan during the past year or two has been the outstanding feature of the provincial dairy industry. Recently the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries made a shipment of 25,000 lbs. of butter to China.

The export of gold bullion, gold coin, and fine gold bars from Canada, except as deemed advisable by the Minister of Finance, and as licensed by him, is prohibited until July 1, 1924, by proclamation issued in the current issue of the Canada Gazette.

Breaking all 1923 passenger traffic records, the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Metagama," westbound from Glasgow via Belfast, docked recently at Quebec, and Montreal the same evening, with a record number of 382 cabin and 1,078 third-class passengers.

"There are hundreds of first class farm workers in Scotland anxious to come to Canada, and the finest material Canada could wish for, but their wages are sufficient to barely support them and they are unable to accumulate funds for the passage." This is the opinion of Thomas Scotland, of the Canadian Pacific Railway Colonization and Development office in Glasgow, who recently arrived in Canada with a party of Scotch immigrants bound for the western provinces.

To J. K. L. Ross, director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, goes the honor of catching the world's record fish with rod and reel. At Ann's Bay, N.S., he landed a tuna weighing 712 pounds; length, 9 feet 2 inches; girth, 6 feet. Commander Ross used a Vom Hofe tuna rod and reel, No. 39 thread line, with mackerel for bait. His catch took three and a quarter hours to land.

The world's wheat crop this year is estimated at 3,318,000,000 bushels, as compared with 3,104,000,000 bushels last year, an increase of 214,000,000 bushels, according to figures carefully compiled by the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome. The estimated shipments from supply countries of the world for this year is 690,000,000 bushels, of which Canada is expected to supply 290,000,000 bushels, or about one-third.

Canadian trade with Australia is on the increase, according to returns made public by the Bureau of Statistics. Canadian exports to Australia for the twelve months ending with June were $19,824,239 as compared with $12,200,468 for the corresponding period ending June, 1922. Canada's imports from the Commonwealth have also increased. The imports from Australia for the last twelve months were $1,545,829, as compared with $1,275,871 for the year previous.

The Most Romantic City in North America

1.—The Quebec Bridge which spans the St. Lawrence, seven miles above the city; 2.—An ancient cannon on the old ramparts of Quebec; 3.—A Quebec Habitant boy with his picturesque equipage; 4.—A typical bit of rural scenery a few miles from Quebec City.

Quebec City, the Gibraltar of the New World, was one of the chief points of call in the itinerary of the Canadian Weekly Press Association over the Canadian National Railways recently. It was a place of intense interest to these publishers and editors, for Quebec is the cradle of the history of Canada. There France's domination of Canada began and there it died, leaving the way open for British dominion over, and the confederacy of the provinces from coast to coast, under one Parliament, one flag and one king. There on the ramparts of the citadel commanding the St. Lawrence, the phantom figures of Champlain's soldiers keep company with the khaki clad sentinel of the present day garrison force. Quebec is a city with an individuality. It is unlike any other city in North America. It is a city of contrasts. Beside a fine modern building one finds a structure with windows heavily shuttered, with massive doors, and walls of thick grey masonry, typifying the days when Quebec was a fortress and the stronghold of the continent. From the spacious width of the Grand Allée one has to walk but a few steps to find a street so narrow that two persons may shake hands across its width. From the modern post office it is only a short distance to the walls which girded the city in the days of siege. A stiff short climb will carry one from the new railway station to the ancient St. Louis gate, through which the dying Montcalm rode after his defeat by Wolfe on the nearby Plains of Abraham. The swiftly propelled automobile passes by, without a salute, the quaint, slow going calèche. A few miles above Quebec stands the famous Quebec bridge, the greatest undertaking of its kind in the world. Across it the Canadian National Railway runs into the heart of the city. It has a total length of 3,240 feet with a suspended span of 640 feet hung between two cantilever arms of 1,160 feet. The suspended span is hung high enough above the water to allow the tallest masted ship to pass beneath with ease a highest water.

The harbor front at Quebec is a busy spot in summer. It is the port of call of ocean liners and trans-Atlantic freighters and a great volume of business pours in and out of this port during the months of open navigation.

Quebec is the centre of the country populated by the Habitants. These people, who correspond to the peasant of France, live in a simple way, and are open-hearted in their hospitality to the stranger in their community. In their quaint but tidy homes the spinning wheel may be seen in use and many picturesque fashions to be found nowhere else on the continent are still in vogue.

except a creation of her own brain under a nervous strain were fruitless.

In time Peckham came north, and it was hoped that his presence would lift the cloud that hung over his wife. It helped her, but did not cure her. She went about as before, but now changed.

"What a sad sight is Mrs Peckham," said one of the men with whom she had trifled—one of the older ones, an officer. "The matter proves the innocence of her action when so many of us were attentive to her. Wicked people are not remorseful. The tender consciences are usually to be found in innocence. Had she been a heartless, a wicked flirt the fact that she had wrecked a man's life would have pleased her. Instead of this, his telling her that she had wrecked his life wrecked hers. He should not have said such a thing to her, and he would not have said it had he been older and realized the effect it would have on her."

It is years since this shock came to Mrs Peckham, and although it has somewhat worn away, it has left its effects. She is still beloved, for at heart she is the same innocent woman though very different from the days of her girlhood. Every one except herself refers the visit of the wraith to a shock coming from over strained nerves. She would as soon doubt her existence as doubt the reality of the visit. After sufficiently recovering to talk about it she declared that she not only smelled the salt air of the sea, but saw Leslie Holt standing before her—not lifelike, it is true because he was very pale, and he had the appearance of having been in the water. Prospect Of Keener Farm Land Demand

Local interest in the work of the newly re-organized Canada Colonization Association is awakened by the announcement made in Winnipeg this week, that T. H. Saul the well known live wire land man has been appointed the associations local agent. The appointment of T. H. Saul is a merited recognition of his standing in this district and of his knowledge of local conditions.

Interviewed this morning Mr. Saul stated that the Canada Colonization Association has now over 200 experienced men working on a vigorous Canadian campaign in different parts of the United States, to co-operate with these on this side of the line some 300 agents are now being appointed.

The Canada Colonization Association said Mr. Saul "is exercising a general supervision over the agents in the United States through its office at St Paul and by district and state supervisors. The Association conducts land seekers' excursions at low rate twice a month to Western Canada and from reports received from the United States' office it is anticipated there will be an appreciable number visit the West this fall. "The Association itself", said Mr. Saul "gets no commission or part of commission for this work. Its purpose is solely to bring settler and private owner of land into touch and to aid generally in the agricultural development of the country."

Mr. Saul is anxious to obtain listings of unoccupied farms for sale in his territory for inclusion in the land listings of the Association. The first issue of these which bore the date of July 16th contained some 1200 farms in the Western Provinces. Mr. Saul pointed out in his interview that the more listings there are in this district the better are the chances of the part of the country for obtaining settlement. Mr. Saul states that in his opinion the degree of success which will attend his efforts to obtain settlement for this district as is true in the case of other districts in the West will depend largely on the liberality of terms given by the owner of the land to the new settler. In view of the depressed condition of farmers everywhere it is essential that lands be listed with a low cash payment extended terms and a low rate of interest on the unpaid principal.

It will be remembered that the Canada Colonization Association has recently been re-organized, the new directors being representatives of the Dominion Government and the two Canadian Transportation Companies. The President is Sir Augustus Nanton, Director of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Vice-President is Mr. E.

A. Field, land commissioner of the Canadian National Railway, the other directors are Mr. D. C. Coleman, Vice-President C.P.R., Mr. A. E. Warren, General Manager, Western Region, C.N.R., Mr. Geo. F. Chapman, Editor, Grain Growers' Guide, Mr. Thos. Gelley, Commissioner of Immigration, Mr. A. A. Tisdale, Assistant to Gen. Mfr. estern Region, C.N.R., Mr. P. L. Nainsmith, Natural Resources Dept., C.P.R., Calgary. Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-President, C.N.R., Montreal, Dr. W. J. Black, Deputy Minister of Immigration, Ottawa, Mr. F. C. Blair, Secretary, Department of immigration, Ottawa, and Col. J. S. Dennis, Chief Commissioner, Colonization and Development, C.P.R., Montreal.

Farming conditions in the United States are in a very bad way at present", said Mr. Saul "and the appeal which low priced lands in Canada makes, is felt likely to revive interest in this country on a large scale in the near future."

Alberta's Twenty Years Growth

The difference which has heretofore existed between Portland and St. John on the one hand and Halifax on the other in export and import rates on traffic to and from British and foreign countries is being done away with, according to an announcement made by Canadian National Railway officials in Montreal.

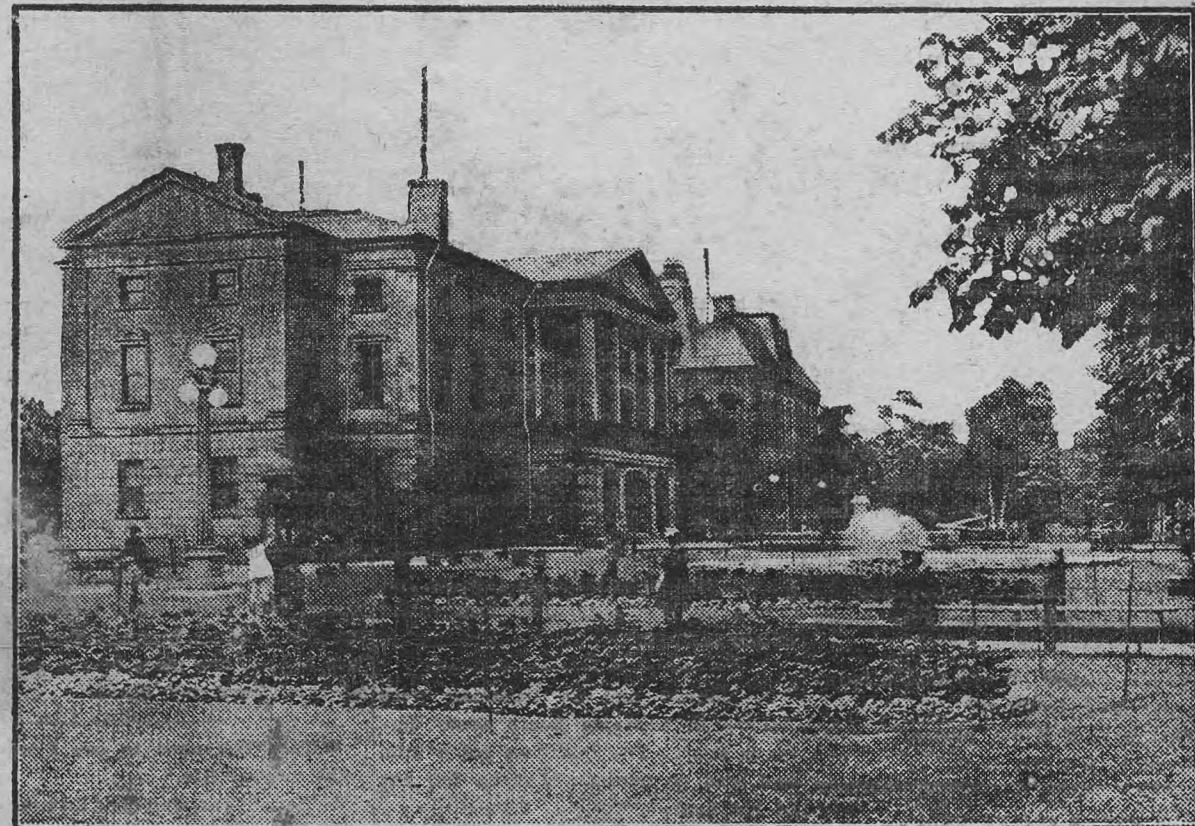

Always be cheerful and make the best of things. Do what is right, and whatever may be your task, do your best in it

Mr: "Well, well! It says that it takes six weeks to make a Panama hat of the finest quality."

Mrs: "Yes and it would take six weeks to earn enough money to pay for one after it is made."

Legislative Halls of Prince Edward Island

The Garden Province of Prince Edward Island has for its capital Charlottetown, a city of wide, tree shaded streets, beautiful parks, splendid public buildings and fine homes. Being situated on the Canadian National Railways and at the junction of three rivers and Hillsborough Bay, it has fine facilities by rail and water for the transportation of the products of its industries. There is about the city a most home-like, attractive appearance. In front of the Legislative Buildings, which are grouped with admirable taste in the park-like heart of the city, there is a large open square, which gives to that portion of the city an old-world atmosphere. Charlottetown was included in the Canadian Weekly Press Association's itinerary over the Canadian National Railways. The photograph shows the Parliament Buildings with a stretch of the beautiful park in front of them.

The Funny Side Of Life

Mrs. N. Parker: 'Are you taking a constitutional, Granny?"

Old Lady (who has a confirmed habit of appropriating other people's property): "You mind your own business: I ain't taken nothing belonging to you."

"I say, old man, how are you getting on with that girl you were so keen about?"

"Top-hole, old chap. The dog has stopped trying to bite me when I call."

"Sandy, lad," said McDougal to his son, "you're getting marrit th' mornin'. Here's a wee moose trap for ye. If there's anythin' a woman hates more than a moose, 'tis a moose trap. Tak' an auld man's advice, Sandy, an' set it every nicht when ye gang to bed. Then put the siller from yer pocket under the spring."

"A piece of beef for roasting," he ordered briskly.

The meat was thrown on the scales. "Look here," remonstrated the man, "you're giving me a big piece of bone."

"Oh, no, I'm not," said the butcher, blandly; "you're paying for it."

He was a young lawyer who had just started practising in a small town and he hung his sign outside his office door. It read: "A. Swindler."

A stranger who called to consult him saw the sign and said: "My goodness, man, look at that sign! Don't you see how it reads? Put your first name—Alexander, Ambrose, or whatever it is."

"Oh, yes, I know," said the lawyer, resignedly, "but I don't like to do it."

"Why not?" asked the client. "It looks bad as it is. What's your first name?"

"Adam."

STOP LEAKING FOUNTAIN PENS

"I've discovered a way to keep a fountain pen from leaking."

"That so? Tell me, please."

"Forgot to put ink in it."

EASILY SUITED

The unprepossessing lady of uncertain age was calling on the small boy's mother, and the child was doing his best to answer her numerous questions politely.

"And how old are you?" she asked him.

"Almost six" was the reply. "How old are you?"

"Oh" said the lady in an embarrassed manner, "I don't remember the year I was born."

"Never mind," answered the small boy, politely; "tell me the century."

It was their first venture at shooting, and they were dreadfully keen. Suddenly Jack spotted a bird, and taking careful aim, prepared to shoot the fatal shot. Then Reggie seized him by the arm frantically.

"For mercy's sake don't fire, Jack!" he yelled, "you've forgotten to load your gun!"

"That's as may be, my lad," retorted Jack, "but fire I must; the bird won't wait."

A man went to a fair with a friend and won a lot of cheap cigars at a gallery. He gave them to an old man of his acquaintance. The old man's little grand-daughter said, "Oh, yes, they'll do for Grandpa."

The next day, when he and his friend went to the fair again, his attention was called to the fact that the little girl was alone.

"Ah! they've done for Grandpa all right," she said.

The city girl holidaying in the country spoke to the farmer about the savage way the bull regarded her.

"Well," said the farmer, "it must be on account of that red blouse you're wearing."

"Dear me," said the girl, "of course, I know it's awfully out of fashion, but I had no idea a country bull would notice it."

A Hebrew and an Irishman were fishing in separate boats some distance apart. The Irishman got a bite, and was so nervous that he fell out of his boat.

He sank twice, and as he came up for the second time the Hebrew rowed over and called out:

"Mister, can I have your boat if you don't come up again?"

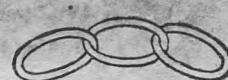

X: "A man likes to go for a sail." Y: "Well, doesn't a woman?" X: "She'd rather go to one."

One touch of merriment makes the whole world grin.

Buy Binder Twine Early

There are indications of a shortage of twine in a number of western shipping points, and it may become necessary to relieve them by shipping out surplus stock from other points where shortage is not serious. J. A. Code has at the present time a fair supply on hand which is being quickly taken up by local demand, but no guarantee can be given of a supply, unless previously ordered, after the end of this week, as shipment to other places may have been made. You will help yourself and your neighbour by filling your requirements at once.

THE ONE AND ONLY

Little Dollie's father was an Indian official. He was also rather afraid of his wife, who was one of those strong-minded women.

One day the little girl was taken out for a drive with her father and some of his friends.

Suddenly a loud roar was heard in the distance, and before long a fierce-looking tiger came into view from the undergrowth at the side of the track.

Each of the men in turn tried to shoot the beast. One after another they failed, and with each failure the little girl got more and more excited.

Finally, turning to her father, she exclaimed in a high-pitched voice:

"Oh, daddy, couldn't we take it home and let mummy shoot it?"

Manager: "My dear, I wish you would wear a different gown in the second act."

Rita Ravenyelp: "But that is the latest evening style."

"That may be true, but when your husband says, 'Woman, you are hiding something from me,' the audience can't make out what he means."

Tourist: "This seems to be a very dangerous precipice. I wonder that they have not put up a warning board."

Guide: "Yes, it is dangerous. They kept a warning board up for two years but no one fell over, so it was taken down."

"Children," said the teacher, instructing the class in composition, "you should not attempt any flights of fancy; simply be yourselves and write what is in you. Do not imitate any other person's writings nor draw inspiration from outside sources."

As a result of this advice one bright lad turned in the following: "We should not attempt any flight of fancy, but write what is in us. In me there is my stemuck, lungs, liver, two apples, one piece of pie, one stick of candy and my dinner."

Wife: "You used to say I was the light of your life."

Hubby: "Yes, but I didn't suppose you were going to get put out at every little thing."

GOOD ADVICE

There was hardly even standing room in the crowded tram, but a young woman wedged her way just inside the door.

Each time the car made a sudden forward lurch she fell back, and three times she landed in the arms of a portly man who was standing on the platform. The third time it happened, he said quietly, "Excuse me: but hadn't you better stay there?"

At the wedding reception the young man remarked; "Wasn't it annoying the way that baby cried during the ceremony?"

"It was simply dreadful," replied the prim little maid of honor, "When I get married I'm going to have engraved right in the corner of the invitations: 'No babies expected!'"

The only way to make a friend is to be one.
